THE PRESIDENT.

He Passes a More Comfortable Day.

The Doctors Declare There Are no Signs of Blood Poisoning.

The Queen Sends a Message of Sympathy and Inquiry.

Latest Reports From the White House Encouraging and Hopeful.

The Situation Tuesday Night

THE TRIBUNE'S SPECIAL

NEW YORK, August 17.—The Tribune's Washington dispatch has the following. A brighter gleam of hope is reflected from the sick room to-night though it may be but a temporary change for the better or a fluctuation but again it may be a forerunner of a brighter to-morrow and of succeeding days of convalescence. Following the gloom of midday the expressions of the evening are almost cheerful. The opinions gathered to-night from the sources usually entitled to the highest credence must be followed with allowance. The people have different standards of comparisons and speak cheerfully of the outlook as compared with the gloomy prospects of the earlier part of the day or despondently as they reflect upon the few remaining chances for recovery. All things considered while clinging to hope it is better perhaps, that by none should not to-night attempt to estimate the chances for or against recovery.

Doctor Bliss said the vomiting to-day was occasioned by shifting the president from his back to his side. The matter expelled was entirely water, of which he had partaken during the day to relieve thirst. Another indication of the president's improvement was the fact that he bore the dressing very much better than he did last night. He suffered less and was not so much excited by it. He endured handling with much better results. His face looks better too, and the nourishing injections which we are giving him are performing their object. I consider that there is good reason to hope. I do not insist that the present has a fair chance for life.

Dr. Agnew was also encouraged not only by the changed symptoms manifested by instruments but by the appearance of the patient and the tone and strength of his voice.

COL. ROCKWELL

himself a graduate in medicine, spoke very encouragingly and said that the president had still a considerable reserve of strength to draw upon. Private Secretary Brown who had conversed with the physicians said that the vomiting mentioned in the bulletin was not regarded as so serious an affair as might be supposed. It resulted from moving him about preparatory to dressing. Secretary Kirkwood said to-night that he felt better than he did last night. Postmaster General James said: "We are all feeling a great deal encouraged. I had not myself inclined to give up hope until yesterday. I did then for a time feel almost beyond hope. To-night, however, I am looking for better things to-morrow." Assistant Secretary and MacVeagh also felt much increased.

THE NEW YORK TIMES SPECIAL

NEW YORK, August 17.—The Times' Washington special of August 16 says that since 7 o'clock the president has steadily improved. There has been no recurrence of nausea, and the pulse at 10 o'clock had gone down to 114, and the temperature and respiration were about normal and so continued to near midnight, when he was arranged for the night by the surgeon in charge. He rests well, his frequent sleeps being timid and natural and refreshing, and good effects are visible from the enemata, the subsidence of the pulse being regarded as evidence that the system is absorbing the nourishment thus administered. Before retiring for the night Dr. Bliss said there was no trouble, except what was derived from the derangement of the stomach, and he is now confident it will be controlled. This feeling on his part is based on a careful examining of all the causes and the symptoms, and he said that Dr. Agnew fully concurred in the belief that the improvement made by the president to-day removes the cause for the alarm felt yesterday. Whether the stomach has to be regarded to the extent that will enable the president in the natural way can only be ascertained by actual experiment, and the test will likely be made to-morrow with beef peptones. Should it prove satisfactory, the enemata will be continued until the stomach is restored to its normal condition and of the ability of the surgeon to let up the president until the stomach resumes its functions. Bliss has not the slightest doubt. The wound is now causing no anxiety. It is granulating rapidly and satisfactorily and is not affected by gastric disturbance. In concluding his talk at midnight Bliss said, with earnestness, "The president is a sick man, but I am confident he will get well."

TO TAKE NOURISHMENT

EXPECTED BULLETIN THIS MORNING

WASHINGTON, August 17.—The president is undoubtedly better this morning, and high hopes are entertained of his recovery. The nausea from which he has been suffering is evidently produced by the enemata administered at the last operation. The stomach seems to have recovered from its excessive weakness and the doctors confidently expect that the president will be able by evening to take nourishment into the stomach. The feeling here about the president is now hopeful.

The Morning Dispatches

OFFICIAL BULLETIN

EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 17th, 8 a.m.—The president has passed a tranquil night sleeping most of the time. He continues to retain the nutrition enemata and has not vomited since the last bulletin. His general condition appears better than at this time yesterday. Pulse 110, temperature 98, respiration 18.

(Signed) D. W. BLISS, F. K. BARNES, J. J. WOODWARD, ROBT. REYBURN, D. H. AGNEW, F. H. HAMILTON.

A NOTE OF WARNING

WASHINGTON, August 17.—The feeling of anxiety and expectancy in the city the past night was intense. In the streets in the neighborhood of the Executive Mansion, in hotels and even in private residences were groups who remained up all night and eagerly inquired after the latest intelligence. Everywhere was the same feeling of profound interest, and the darkened windows of the White House were watched all night by patient crowds.

EXPECTATIONS FULFILLED

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Aug. 17.—Dr. Boynton said this morning that the prospects were considerably brighter and the president was resting comfortably. In reply to a question the doctor explained the enemata which were being administered. They consisted principally of diluted extracts of beef, yolk of egg and whisky, the whole being dissolved and slightly heated. Dr. Bliss stated that a small portion of muriatic acid was also a part of the enemata. The doctor still remains hopeful and says there is no occasion for giving the president up yet. Dr. Boynton said it was possible that a very small quantity of diluted beef extract probably a teaspoonful administered in the mouth would be given the president about noon. It would depend, however, upon the patient's condition at that hour. He has not been troubled with nausea since yesterday afternoon, at which time he threw off about a gill of liquid matter containing a quantity of bile. Dr. Boynton says Mrs. Garfield feels rather more encouraged to-day than yesterday.

A DISPATCH FROM POSTMASTER JAMES

WASHINGTON, August 17.

To Postmaster Pearson:

The president has rested well and there is a slight improvement over yesterday. We are hopeful. [Signed] JAMES.

The Afternoon Dispatches

AFTERNOON BULLETIN

EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 17—12:30 p.m.—The president's condition has not materially changed since the last bulletin. He has been tranquil and has slept some, and has not vomited. The nutritive enemata are still maintained. Pulse 112, temperature 98.7, respiration 18.

[Signed] D. W. BLISS, F. K. BARNES, J. J. WOODWARD, ROBT. REYBURN, D. H. AGNEW, F. H. HAMILTON.

ALL AT THE MANSION ENCOURAGED

WASHINGTON, August 17.—Private Secretary Brown reports all at the White House as encouraged this morning. Nothing occurred during the night of an unfavorable nature. Enemata were given twice and retained. The president said a few minutes after that he felt pretty well and messages to this effect were sent the cabinet officers. Since Sunday last the appearance of the president has greatly changed. His face has become haggard, bleached to whiteness and his person has fallen away perceptibly and his debility now is so great that he scarcely moves. It is necessary to turn him over in bed when it becomes painful for him to continue in one position. The appearance of bed sores have appeared is not true. The theory that the present gastric trouble comes from pyemia is rejected by all attending surgeons. They do not see any signs of it. It would show itself in color or would make itself known by its odor. Nor do they believe that the condition of the stomach would now be different in either had been omitted in the last operation.

CONDITION STILL REMAINS CRITICAL

WASHINGTON, August 17.—It is probable that the president is slightly better than yesterday. Another spice blister has been put on the stomach to-day which stimulates it some. The doctors think the stomach is improved in its tone but Mrs. Edson insists on further test for it. A careful examination of the wound to-day failed to show blood poisoning and the feeling at the White House is much more hopeful. Bliss said at 1 p.m. that the chances had improved but that the condition was critical. Mrs. Garfield is more encouraged.

BLOOD POISONING DENIED

Dr. Bliss in a second interview again emphatically denied that any blood poisoning had occurred and said that the patient's stomach was alone to blame for the present trouble. The attending surgeons were all quite confident that the treatment adopted would soon remove this. In referring to the appearance of the president, Dr. Bliss said that when he was shot his weight was about 240 pounds and that his confinement has reduced him probably seventy pounds. He is of course somewhat paler. All reports received from the sick room this morning have been of an encouraging nature, and while there is a feeling of reassurance considerable anxiety is still manifested and the moon-built hope is anxiously awaited.

DR. BLISS'S POSITIVE AFFIRMATION REGARDING

EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 17.—In a conversation this afternoon regarding the statements of Dr. Hammond relative to the treatment of the president in which he severely criticises the ability of the attending surgeons, Dr. Bliss said it was to be hoped that Dr. Hammond should say such things. He referred to the inconsistence he had to go to when the doctor was in trouble to assist him. The longer the speaker dwelt upon the subject the warmer he grew, and in conclusion said the statements credited to Dr. Hammond were simply infamous and untrue.

A LETTER FROM DR. BOYNTON

ST. LOUIS, Mo., August 17.—The Globe-Democrat prints a letter from Dr. Boynton regarding the treatment of the president. Dr. Boynton is a homeopathist and has been for many years the physician of the Garfield family. Though of another school he seems to endorse the treatment which the president receives. The letter is to Colonel Rockwell.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Washington, August 1.—My Dear Sir: Your favor of the 16th is received. The newspapers get things mixed somewhat. The president is in much better condition now than at any time since the injury and is improving every day with every prospect of going steadily on to recovery. Since you left he was obliged to undergo a pretty severe operation which promises to be the last in the way of cutting. You need feel no anxiety for his recovery. It is only a matter of time.

In regard to nursing we have things well arranged now. Mrs. Edson takes him one night until 3 a.m. and General Swaim follows her and remains with him until Mrs. Edson returns some time during the day and she and I take turns staying with him during the day. The next night I stay with him until 3 a.m. then Colonel Rockwell follows me and remains until 7 a.m. when I again take him, and so it goes day after day and night after night.

I read your letter to the president and Mrs. Garfield. They send their love and say that you need not think of coming back, for he is getting along so well that he will not need such care as you after a few days. He is good but much stronger than when you left and in every good condition every way.

D. W. BOYNTON.

The Evening Dispatches

OFFICIAL BULLETIN

EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 17—6:30 p.m.—The president's condition is even better than it was this morning. There has been no vomiting during the day and the enemata continue to be retained. Moreover a teaspoonful of beef extract has twice been administered by mouth and not rejected, and the small quantities of water swallowed from time to time excite no nausea. The wound continues to do well. At present his pulse is 112, temperature 98.8, respiration 18.

[Signed] D. W. BLISS, F. K. BARNES, J. J. WOODWARD, ROBT. REYBURN, D. H. AGNEW, F. H. HAMILTON.

GENERAL CONSTERNATION IN WASHINGTON

NEW YORK, August 17.—General Arthur received a few calls to-day. Washington specials say that Dr. Agnew conducted the examination this morning. The wound is reported to be in good condition and the flow and quality of the pus satisfactory everything considered. The patient said that the manipulation caused very little uneasiness. Signs of blood poisoning were looked for and none found. The president's secretary answered an enormous number of dispatches this morning. They came from every quarter. One was from a strong, healthy man offering to furnish his blood to save the president by transfusion.

BLAINE TO LOWELL

EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 17.—Secretary Blaine sent the following:

To Lowell, Minister, London:

At 4:30 p.m. to the physicians report the president as in better condition than at any time during the past forty-eight hours. He has retained a very small quantity of liquid food. Hope is again revived.

—BLAINE, Secretary.

THE QUEEN AND MRS. GARFIELD

The following was received at the Executive Mansion this afternoon:

OSBORNE, August 17.

To Mrs. Garfield, Washington:

I am most anxious to know how the president is to-day, and to express my deep sympathy with you both. (Signed) VRI QUEEN.

The following reply to this has been sent:

To Her Majesty the Queen, Osborne:

Your majesty's inquiry finds the president's condition changed for the better. In the judgment of his medical advisers there are strong hopes of his recovery. His mind is entirely clear, and your majesty's kind expressions of sympathy are most grateful to him as they are gratefully acknowledged by me. (Signed) LUCRETIA R. GARFIELD.

HAS NOT VOMITED TO-DAY

EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 17, 5 p.m.—Owing to contradictory information obtained during the last hour with regard to the president's condition, a note was just sent Dr. Bliss who is in the surgeon's room informing him that a gentleman who had been recently in the private apartments of the house had said upon leaving the mansion that the president had vomited this afternoon and that his pulse was slightly higher. Dr. Bliss in reply wrote: "There has not been any vomiting to-day." Secretary Blaine says he found things more encouraging than he expected.

LATE NIGHT BULLETIN

EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 17.—The president has been asleep nearly two hours. There has been no recurrence of nausea in any degree. No morphia was administered to-day. His pulse at this hour is about 110.

SOME CHANGE IN VIEWS OF THE PRESIDENT'S DOCTORS

NEW YORK, August 17.—The Herald's Washington special says: It is thought that the president will make no long stay in the administration and will make no removals from offices of large emoluments. He will disregard the clamor of party organizations in the personnel of the present administration and is quite certain that though the members of the present cabinet and some other important officers of the government may offer their resignations Arthur will not accept them to continue in office and it will be their duty to stay by the country to the last. There will be no popular attempt at a fire the country will run and the public business will go on as it is better.

BENEFITS BY THE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, August 17.—One of the attending surgeons says the president had a very good day and has been able to take the nourishment administered. In reply to a question whether there had been any vomiting the doctor said: "No. The present has vomited the nourishment administered to-day. When I left the sick room the last time his pulse was 114."

THE MIDNIGHT BULLETIN

EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 17.—Everything is quiet in the sick room. Dr. Bliss and members of the president's household have retired for the night.

DENVER

A Conscientious Committee—A Public Meeting Called to Discuss the Capital Question

DENVER, August 17.—The executive committee, which was recently appointed by the board of trade to agitate the capital question, in favor of Denver to-day adopted resolutions resigning their positions, assigning as reason therefor that the erroneous impression has gone forth that large sums of money were to be used to secure the capital for Denver at the coming election, and that this do not understand that there is such intention or disposition on the part of the citizens of Denver and they believe that a money campaign for such purpose would be exceedingly unwise, unfair and improper. They recommend that the board of trade call a public meeting, to discuss the question and select a judicious committee to circulate such information as to advantages enjoyed by Denver as a place where the capital should be located permanently as will enable the electors to vote intelligently on the question. In accordance with the above recommendation the board of trade has called a meeting of the citizens to be held in the district court room Friday next.

Struck by Lightning

DENVER, August 17.—A man named Doug Ross employed at Noah Collins' sheep ranch near Box Alder was found this morning near the ranch. It is supposed he was struck by lightning last night. The hair on the back of his head was singed off and he was cut in several places.

Indians Kill Two Men

ANTONITO, COLO., August 17.—Three herders were attacked by Indians in a pass near Amargo last night. Two were killed and the others escaped. The bodies of the two murdered Indian were found this morning.

THE INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS

Meeting at Cologne of Association for Reform of the Law of Nations.

LONDON, August 17.—The conference of the association for the reform and codification of the law of nations, which convened at Cologne Germany, yesterday, holds its sessions in the great hall of Hansa. The English officers of the association are: Honorary president, Right Hon. Lord O'Hagan; president, Right Hon. Sir R. J. Phillimore; and vice presidents from the United States, China, Italy, Japan, The Netherlands and Norway and Sweden. The vice presidents from the United States include Chief Justice Waite of the supreme court—and Justice Field, Hon. John Jay, Hon. Carl Schurz, Hon. David Dudley Field, the late president of the association, Judge Charles A. Peabody and Geo. James Grant Orison. The subjects to be discussed at the conference are public international law, international commercial law and international maritime law and embrace also arbitration and disarmament. Among the American delegates who have left to attend the conference are D. D. Field, E. A. P. Barnard, Charles A. Peabody and others. The conference will represent all the principal nations in the world. It is the ninth conference of this association and is expected to surpass all previous ones.

An Interrupted Lecture

HAMILTON, Ont., August 16.—Father O'Connor, of New York, president of the Independent Catholic church, attempted to deliver a lecture at Watertown last evening. He was interrupted by the mob, who hustled him from the platform and seized his manuscript. O'Connor was escorted to the hotel by the constable. Warrants are issued for arrests.

GUITEAU'S ATTEMPT.

He is Found in His Cell With A Knife.

And Makes A Desperate Attempt on the Guard's Life.

He is Excited by News of the President's Condition.

WASHINGTON, August 17.—This morning at 11 while Mr. W. McCoil, one of the guards at the jail was passing through the corridor near the apartment of Guiteau's cell attracted his attention. Entering the cell he found the prisoner in possession of a knife. He he returned it to a mystery. When he demanded the knife Guiteau refused to surrender it. Mr. McCoil drew a pistol and then an exciting tussel ensued. Guiteau in the excitement to get the pistol from the guard. He succeeded after a struggle but McCoil after most strenuous exertion regained possession of it. In the scuffle that followed the pistol was discharged and the jail brought other guards to the assistance of McCoil and Guiteau was battle defeated. He had succeeded, however in cutting McCoil's clothing pretty badly and came very near inflicting a dangerous wound. Guiteau pretended to be crazy and complained that his pistol had been taken from him. All the facts indicate that Guiteau was probably meditating a rescue and he had formed some desperate plan. His assumption of insanity is believed to be a ruse as he has acted as if perfectly sane all along.

The news in the jail of the president's critical condition and the strengthening of the jail guard yesterday excited Guiteau, causing him to pace his cell and look anxiously for the first time. When the story reached the jail that the president was dying, Guiteau climbed up the window and other wise seemed excited. The guard W. McCoil watched him lest in fearing he would trample upon and injure the cell and seeing something in his hands and turning it was a knife said:

What are you doing with that knife. Guiteau looked up excitedly and said: "So help me God I have no knife." McCoil insisted he had, when Guiteau furiously sprang at his throat. McCoil drew back and the knife entered his coat collar cutting off the upper button and made a deep scratch on the left shoulder. The guard cocked a revolver which Guiteau dropped his knife and grasped the pistol crying for help, and saying he was being shot. The pistol accidentally discharged and the guards entering disarmed Guiteau who says he was acting in self-defense. Dabo Bonford, who formerly occupied the cell had probably concealed the knife there which Guiteau found. It is a cheese or criminal substitute for a bowie knife, razor or dagger. The blade is two or three inches long and half an inch broad. When the guard remarked he thought the pistol shot had settled the dog, Guiteau who was pleased at the escape, said: "My dear sir, that is too important a subject for joking. A life is valuable."

McCoil thinks that Guiteau supposed the president was dead and was trying thus to prove his insanity. Guiteau could have had nothing against McCoil who is a pleasant man. He had no possible chance of escape. Nobody about the jail will talk at present. It will be thoroughly investigated how Guiteau got the knife. Twenty men and three commissioned officers now guard the jail. The prisoner is vigilantly watched.

The Venango

Mr. J. J. Seldomridge has recently returned from an inspection of his mines in the Gunnison. He has brought some very rich and interesting specimens with him. The Venango seems to be generally considered one of the richest mines in this camp. The Democrat of Leadville, in a carefully written letter, gives the following accurate statement of the development of these mines:

The Silver Mountain Mining company of which Mr. N. Tooker, of Jersey City, is president, G. De La Vergne of Colorado Springs, vice president and J. J. Seldomridge, secretary and treasurer, have ten claims in the Kokomo district, one of which is attracting marked attention and is even now classed with the best mines of the camp although its value has only recently been discovered. The mine referred to is the Venango. It is one mile from Irwin, easily accessible, and in the hands of parties who intend to develop it thoroughly, having the positive assurance that to do so will add in no small degree to the fame of Irwin and give a double return for every dollar invested. There is now on the claim a tunnel 151 feet in length cutting the vein. This tunnel will be driven to a still greater length. At a length of 118 feet drifting on the vein was commenced. This drift is forty-eight feet in length and in it a winze has been sunk to a depth of fifty feet on the vein and a rich vein encountered. Drifting was then commenced both ways from the winze following on the vein to the great length of seventy feet in order to strike a shaft sunk sixty five feet east of the tunnel. Beyond this shaft there is a drift of 125 feet along the vein at the same level with the tunnel. A great deal of stoping has been done. The vein varies in width from three to five feet with a pay streak of from six to fifteen inches in width which will average unassorted, sixty ounces per ton although the first class ore gives an average of four hundred ounces to the ton. The work of development will be continued by a new tunnel 170 feet long, 180 feet below the present tunnel. The main objective now seems to be to open stoping ground. A great deal of ore has been shipped with the present development, all of which has been made since April last. The ore vein carries ruby and brittle silver with black sulphurets and galena. Mr. J. Copley is superintending the work of development.

The Omega, another claim, owned by this company, has on it a tunnel 105 feet in length in which at a length of ninety feet, native silver was found. Still further developments are being made with encouraging results. Of the other claims belonging to the company the Zimo, Tacoma and Chicomo are the only ones that are being developed at present. The well known Prof. Van Diest has recently made a thorough inspection of the Venango and several other of the properties named and gives them most encouraging report of them. Their extensive development means new riches for Irwin and the Gunnison country.

WIDOW BEDOTT

This Dramatic Oddity at the Opera House Next Week

On next Monday and Tuesday evenings our citizens will have an opportunity of witnessing at the Opera House the production of the very laughable dramatic oddity, "Widow Bedott" by the J. H. Haverly company, with Charles B. Bishop as the inimitable widow. With this absurdly humorous production our play going public is perfectly familiar although never before has it been produced in this city. The facial dramatization of the Bedott papers and Bishop's impersonation of the widow have for some time past and still continue to draw crowded houses wherever the company appears. Neil Burgess established for himself quite a reputation as per sonator of the widow but Bishop's rendition of the same character is said to be so far superior to that of Burgess that there is no comparison. Below we print a selection from the Salt Lake Tribune which will give somewhat of an idea how the play was received in the Mormon settlement.

If there ever was a place over which an audience ran the risk 'to dislocate the spinal marrow of their back bones,' it is Petroleum V. Nasby's three-act farce of Widow Bedott. This inexhaustible mine of mirth is so well known to the Ogden public by repeated performances, all of them largely attended, that we will forbear entering into the details of the matter, and only say a few words concerning the actors or rather artists. For such indeed are the leading characters of the piece. Comparisons are odorous and there are as many styles of conception and execution of a given character as there are performers hence we looked on Mr. Bishop's 'Widow' forgetful of all other impersonators of the irrepressible, loquacious dame. His facial display could not be surpassed, his volubility was that of a parrot, his acting humorously ludicrous, his make-up irresistible. Mr. Barrows as Elder Sniffles gave a life like portraiture of the canting avaricious, tintor ous preacher. Of Mr. Sutherland's Tim Crane it was only to be regretted that he made no more appearance after the first act, his grief to mitigate. The rest of the support was equally commendable and the whole performance ran off as a charm.

NEW YORK

The Coming Wheat Crop Reviewed

NEW YORK, August 17.—The Times in its review of the latest statistics of the wheat crop thinks it is within bounds to estimate our surplus for export from old and new crops at 150,000,000 bushels, California and Oregon contributing not less than 15,000,000 bushels. From all available data it appears that Europe will call on us for 60,000,000 bushels less than we furnished last year but the demand will absorb nearly all our available supplies and would take more if for the old stock on hand. The recent sharp advance in wheat to $1.31 per bushel, which is twenty seven cents higher than the average of the last ten years, is not wholly speculative and may be taken as an indication of the wide spread conviction that the demand for home use and foreign export during the year will practically exhaust our supply.

Rejoice!

President Garfield is better.

We present our readers this morning with an admirable view of the Mexican railroad question as given in an interview with Gen. Palmer of a New York Evening Post reporter. It is worthy of careful perusal.

The Silver World in a sharp editorial criticises the Herald severely for publishing the Peck dispatches. It also has a few plain words regarding the character of Peck which the Herald is trying to bolster up.

Some papers are troubled about Colorado Springs being too good, and fear the presence of the legislature will corrupt it. Does it does not occur to them that the converse may be true. The good influences of the city may do the legislature good.

A recent report of Secretary Windom says that the annual interest account on March 1st, 1881, was $71 845 916 50. The refunding has reduced this interest to $61 475 842 25. The reduction appears all the more remarkable when we remember that in 1867 we were paying interest at the rate of over $140,000,000 per annum. At the beginning of President Hayes' administration we were paying over $100 000 000 a year.

"Bull Run" Russell is writing absurdly untruthful articles about Colorado. It is hard to be supposed that he would intentionally misrepresent the truth. He must have been very simple however to have believed the stories with which some wag stuffed him. It is annoying to read such articles because they contribute to that large mass of misinformation now existing in England regarding our social condition. The articles of Russell will generally be accepted as a true statement of our social condition as Russell is a fairly intelligent man and was here to see the country. The readers naturally suppose that an observer will gain information by visiting Colorado as they do by visiting any other country and are not to be criticised for being deceived. But Russell gained only misinformation which he is giving forth in an extremely generous manner.

The Leadville Herald to show that protection sentiment is growing in England says that a large meeting has been held by the manufacturing classes in London at which resolutions favoring protection were passed. This is to be expected and by no means shows that there will be a protection policy in England. Whenever there are hard times, a number of thoughtless superficial people will be found advocating a change. After the hard times of 1873, the west was for inflation and every wild financial scheme then before the country. They favored these schemes simply because they were a change from the financial policy of the administration. England is passing through a similar experience. Her people very naturally wish more wages, and as free trade now rules with the low wages they think protection will give higher wages. Policies as well as parties are at a great disadvantage in hard times. This nonsense will soon disappear. The English people are not so dull as not to see that there is no need of protection. Protection is needed to defend young industries. Now if England had any extensive industries that were being injured by the importations of foreign manufacture, it would be reasonable, from a protective standpoint, to adopt a protective tariff. But there are no such industries. England's importations consist almost entirely of raw products, which she must import to keep her manufactories going and feed her people. It is absurd to show that such a country not only is not likely to adopt protection, but would strike a fatal blow to its commercial interests by doing so.

THE SOUTHERN COTTON EXHIBITION

The cotton interests in the south have always been large, and King Cotton has long held a high position. Before and during the war the foundation of his throne was political rather than industrial. Fidelity to this sovereign was a test of party fidelity, and whoever was not true to him was presumed to be unfaithful to the south. Cotton was a powerful king whom it was dangerous to chase, and unsafe to be unfaithful to. But the war told heavily against the political influence enjoyed by King Cotton. He lost much of his power and to-day cannot be considered the despot he once was.

But if the political power of this southern king has been weakened, he still enjoys a commercial influence which is great and perhaps is destined to become greater. The cotton production of the south is depended upon not only in this country but in Europe as well and cotton growing is one of the largest industries of the southern people. It receives more attention now than even during and previous to the war, and an exhibition which is to be held in Atlanta will give it an impetus which will still more extend the commercial importance of King Cotton and do much to make good to him the loss of his political importance.

The International Cotton Exhibition, to be held in Atlanta, is progressing rapidly and the prospects become brighter day by day that it will do much for the state in which it is held, and for the people in general throughout the south. The exhibition will be more than a show of cotton and cotton products. It will be rather a world's fair and the south will in the next three months receive an impetus to its commercial and manufacturing existence not received before.

The history of the enterprise is this: It had its origin in the brain of Edward Atkinson, the political economist, who spoke to the people of Atlanta and enlisted their interest and support. After some tinguent movements on the part of the people of Atlanta the subject was taken hold of with interest and a time was set, situation determined upon and the cotton dealers and growers invited to join in holding an exhibition which all believed would do much to bring prosperity to the south and which would call attention to one of the chief industries of the country. Already the grounds upon which the exhibition buildings are to stand have been put in readiness and made attractive and convenient. Roads have been made, miniature lakes created, elevations removed and uneven places smoothed. Rustic bridges, summer houses and various buildings have sprung up, now being erected, and the main room is adapted in every way to all the requirements of the coming fair. There will be machinery of every description and fields of growing cotton, so that the whole process can be observed of making cloth from cotton which is picked on the spot and run through the various machine.

Nor is this all. The other resources of the south will be exhibited. Tobacco, the minerals the corn, everything in fact which may grow or which is natural to the soil will have departments for exhibition where all may see how rich the states are and how rich they may become if only capital will go there. It seems as though nothing more beneficial to the south could have been planned than this exhibition. It will bring new life to Georgia and to every other state and the people should be congratulated upon their happy prospects.

Rival of Mont?

Denver Tribune

Mud Springs has made pretty rapid time, but she has not struck the lightning gait of a Colorado town. We do not believe we indulge in the slightest hyperbole when we say the Colorado town is the swiftest bird that runs or flies. He is also the most adventurous. He will jump from the top of a ten foot bowlder and alight on the floor right side up and smiling ready for a paste pot or church ticket or exposition. He is financed tobacco and 1880 bound to be he is quite contented even with the poor miserable, sickly stumps the reporters regretfully cast aside. If he happens to get an overdose of tobacco and feels the least bit nauseated all he has to do is to climb up on the table and take a dose of paste and then stand around in the sunlight and let the paste dry. No matter how nauseated he is nothing can get by that paste. He has no penchant for liquor. If there is an empty whisky bottle on the premises he will hunt it out explore its interior and deliberately proceed to get drunk on the few drops of whisky that may happen to remain. His fondness for filling up on liquor that somebody else has paid for is almost human. The pleasantest feature about the town is that when by the utmost luck you chance to stay one, his friends will come along and save you the trouble of disposing of his remains. It is not uncommon to see a dozen or two hungry roaches loafing around waiting for one of their number to be killed. Insect poison is the roach's best hold. He can eat more of it and die less frequently than any other creature whose bowels are not of celluloid and whose veins are not cast iron.

Outlaw Manufacturers

The easiest thing to accomplish in the world is to become a great desperado. All that is required is a sufficiency with a press reporter possessed of a good imagination. Jesse Stockton never killed a man yet but he is a great outlaw and desperado.

Time it Extended

Denver News

The course of a mob, when reduced to the standpoint of personal responsibility and personal risk, too often proves to be a mere cowardice, with neither necessity, fair play nor merit to commend it. Hard as the citizens of Conejos have been used by Allison and his gang, it yet remains that the lynching of those men by irresponsible parties means one of two things: that the courts and officials elected by that people are either too stupid, too cowardly or too venal to perform the duties assigned them by law, or that evidence is lacking of sufficient clearness and weight to legally convict the accused. Neither form of the dilemma is pleasant or profitable to a law abiding community but the too frequent occurrence of hanging men without the consent of the sheriff and the decision of the court means one or the other, if it does not mean both. It is time that such practices or the fear of them, had ceased to exist in this state. They belong to a phase of civilization now happily past, and which is rapidly receding as the railroads advance.

A Sign of War

Denver Tribune

The fact that the Emperor William and the Emperor Joseph recently fell into each others arms, slobbered all over each other's shirt fronts and wished each other peace, mercy and peace, would seem to indicate the probability of a warlike outbreak between Germany and Austria. They used to say when old Daniel Drew came on Wall street with a sanctimonious countenance and mumbling his prayers: "Now look out for a flurry in the market." And so whenever the effete monarchs of Europe fall to lollygagging and sentimentalizing, it may be taken for granted that there is trouble ahead.

MEXICAN RAILROADS

A Supplement to Accounts of the Different Lines—The Prospects of Business for the Roads—Statements of General W. J. Palmer—Character of the Mexico and Its People.

From New York Evening Post.

Since the publication in the Evening Post of some articles upon the railroad routes laid out and now building in Mexico several letters have appeared in the daily journals suggesting that the railroad building interest would be overdone in Mexico and would surely disappoint many persons who expected large dividends from such investments. Some letters from Captain Cushman also appeared in this journal supporting this view of the matter, and contending that the Mexican was by nature opposed to railroads and would not use them if he had them. As the interest in the development of the Mexican railway system is very widespread at present, and the question of future dividends from these roads an important one to many persons, a reporter of the Evening Post called yesterday upon General W. J. Palmer, the president of the Mexican National Railway company (Palmer Sullivan concession), in order to obtain a statement of the case from a man believed in the future of Mexican railroads.

Why is it, General, it was asked, that Mexico present so inviting a field for railroad enterprise, has been so long overlooked? It has been well populated for centuries and has been known ever since Humboldt's voyage as being filled with mines and is presenting excellent facilities for agriculture, yet the waste places of the west the deserts of Colorado were traversed by railroads before Mexico was even thought of, apparently as a place for such undertakings.

The question is certainly one answered General Palmer, and one that I have been called upon to answer many times. Why is Mexico a rich and populous country having a large inland traffic practically without railways, while other Spanish American countries were undeveloped, quite as subject to political revolutions and with inferior resources have found railroad building a profitable employment? Chili and Peru have several thousand miles of railroad in operation, Bolivia, Central America and Venezuela have railroads, while even the semi-civilized countries of the old world—Egypt, Persia and Japan, for instance—have far outstripped Mexico.

One of the chief reasons for this state of things is that it has been impossible to build railroads with American money without some sort of protection from the Mexican government and this has not always been easy to obtain. Only a person familiar with the country knows to what extent the Mexican is possessed with the notion that the United States are insatiable in their desire for more territory and that an attempt to absorb the whole of Mexico will be made sooner or later. The republic has already absorbed so much of Mexico's northern territories that the idea will follow is a matter of course reason the Mexicans. Therefore they are slow to allow them to establish means by which we can "pull their country" with United States troops at a day's notice. That is one great reason why we have never before got into Mexico and another will be found in the fear that property may be insecure in a country famous for its political disturbances. Also it may be said that Mexico is in the so-called known territory to many persons.

He reasons why the Mexicans have never undertaken to build railways—the reasons are equally plain. The people are not rich and the government's credit has been so uniformly bad that no money could be borrowed outside. All that the government could raise was absorbed in the suppression of a large assortment of domestic revolutions and the payment of interest on the national debt. It must also be acknowledged that the Mexicans have absolutely no enterprise so far as the introduction of machinery is concerned. The country is so rich already that the Mexican is satisfied to go on with the primitive tools used in his forefathers. It will scarcely be believed that when I was down there ten years ago the method then (and probably yet) in use for getting water out of the silver mines was literally to carry it out in men with pigskins on their backs went from the bottom of the mines to the surface filling their pigskins at the bottom and emptying them at the top. Instead of sinking shafts they use the old fashioned pocket-knife process. In fact, the ab initio principle fitted Lazarus all work by steam and it was a surprised for us to find and open the most rich lands known to exist in the country those discovered last year at Pachuca and Real del Monte on the Manzanillo line and in the state of Michoacan.

It is not fairly true as some writers have observed, that the Mexican is not fond of travel. We get plenty of good laborers at thirty two cents a day to work in the neighborhood of their homes but we cannot tempt these same men to come and work for us on the Colorado roads. But although the passenger traffic is not what will pay for Mexico, the experience of Mexico's present roads show that the people may be educated to use the railroad to some extent. Some travelers argue that because the Mexicans do not pass away their time riding on the Mexico & Vera Cruz railway that they would not use any road, but most persons do not know that the charge on that road for passage from one end to the other, a distance of two hundred and twenty miles, is sixteen dollars, with extra charges for baggage, which brings the cost up to twenty dollars. Even this road—built at enormous expense as compared to ours and managed in such a way that the freight rates are prohibitory so far as the carriage of grain and many other productions of the country are concerned—pays handsomely, returning according to the official report, gross earnings amounting to between six thousand and seven thousand dollars a mile for the second year of its existence, the expenses being about half that. In 1879 the average net earnings of all railways in the United States was $2 610 a mile. The net earnings of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad for 1880 were on the four hundred and sixty miles operated $3 718 a mile. If we can do so well at the northern end of this vast Mexican plateau what is to prevent our doing twice as much in the southern end, filled with mines and thickly populated?

The same criticism that we now hear about the Mexican railways I have heard with regard to new roads built over the west. From the reports made by experts concerning the future in Arizona for instance Arizona was characterized, again and again, by the Hayden expedition and by General Hazen as an arid waste not fit even for mining, the same was said of the lower part of Colorado and even as far back as the settlement of Kansas, that state was said to be unfit for railroad. Yet what excellent railroad properties the roads of Arizona, California, Nevada, Oregon, Utah and Washington have proved to be. The whole population of these states I have mentioned amounts to only 1 61,183. In Mexico the census of 1870 gave a population of 9 500 000, say ten millions by this time. These territories of ours which we regard as so marvelously rich in metals are only parts and waste parts at that of what was once Mexico. They were and still are, regarded by the Mexicans as of small value as compared to Mexico proper. The mines we have found are more than equaled by the mines which the Mexicans have been working in their lazy chinsy way for centuries. As an agricultural country we cannot of course be in competition with Colorado with Mexico, where the arid land and sage brush of our mining deserts is replaced by fertile fields and forests, producing in abundance corn, wheat, barley, sugar, rice, cotton, tobacco and a large class of products wholly tropical which we cannot grow, and of which Mexico has a monopoly in this part of the world. Such, for instance as coffee, indigo, cocoa, India rubber, vanilla, cochineal, mahogany, ebony, rosewood, lemon limes, cinchona bark, sarsaparilla and many fine cabinet woods, with tropical fruits almost unknown to us.

"Few persons who listen to colorful predictions of a lack of business for Mexican railroads have any idea how thoroughly the country is cultivated down there. When I went to Mexico in 1868 with General Rosecrans I supposed that it would be a easy thing to obtain from the government a grant of public lands in the districts through which we wanted to pass. I was astonished to find that there were no waste lands belonging to the state, the boundary lines of properties were marked with the greatest care and you would be surprised to see stone walls running over the ridges of apparently barren mountains. We found before long that we should have to give up all expectations of a land subsidy, because the state had no land to give. It was all held by the people, who had no idea of giving up any part of it. It may be fair to add that where there are not mines in Mexico there is a splendid agricultural land and as the earnings of a railroad depend largely upon its ability to supply to one part of the road what another lacks, nothing could be more favorable than the disposition of Mexico's wealth and the ties will and business interchanging on the exchange between the mineral and the agricultural districts.

The Mexican has been characterized as lazy but what inducement has he to pile up goods and hogsheads of sugar for which there is no demand at home and no means of transportation to another market? Up to this very time there have been less than four hundred miles of railroad in all Mexico that tells the whole story, and yet in these disadvantageous circumstances her combined exports and imports for 1879 the last year of which we have any figures amounted to $90 000 000, about equal to those of Norway ($61 000 000), Japan ($60 000 000), or Portugal ($94 000 000) and nearly one half those of Spain ($14 000 000). The national revenue, inclusive of collected was in the latest return $17 811,1 more than that of Denmark, Switzerland or Norway. The increase expected when once the railroads get through the country may be inferred from the fact that the customs duties at Vera Cruz for February, 1881, were three times as large as those for 1880.

Although the present political condition of Mexico is satisfactory, the influence of external railroads bringing the country into communication with the large cities of the United States cannot but increase the political stability of the country and the rapid communication between the chief Mexican cities will render the spasmodic revolts which have been the curse of the Mexican nation a thing of the past. As already set forth in an article in the Evening Post Mexico has along the line of one road and its towns of more than 10 000 inhabitants, its chief among which is the City of Mexico with a population of 80 000, San Luis Potosi 60 000, Puebla 75 000, Leon 100 000, Guanajuato 41 000, and Guadalajara 1 000. Towns of this size in the United States have their two or three lines of railroads, their telegraph lines, foundries, machine shops and banks. The town of Leon which is the Manchester of the country is filled with industrious mechanics working without steam or machinery.

I cannot put up a better word for Mexico's valuable enterprise and the more railroads that are built the better for us) than to direct attention to what has been done in our far west. There is I said before we have built railroads through territories that are deserts compared to Mexico and yet the enterprises have paid even in the chief sources of railroad wealth have helped. Our road running down through the San Juan district of southern Colorado will only reach Gunnison City the important mining town to-morrow and it will not be until the end of the year that we shall get to Montezuma yet the business collections are satisfactory. If this is the case in Colorado I can see nothing to prevent twice the number of railroads now building or projected in Mexico from earning fair dividends.

From Gen. Nevin, the secretary of the Mexican National Construction Company, the reporter obtained the following statement of the condition of the Mexican National railway at the present time, thus supplementing the article upon this railway which was published in the Evening Post on the 18th of July.

Active work is now going on upon all the eleven divisions of the road as reported in the previous article. The division from the City of Mexico to El Salto (forty four miles) has been in operation since the first of June, running freight and passenger trains daily. Ten miles are completed and running on the division from Zacatecas to San Luis Potosi. The division from the City of Mexico to Zoquetlan (37 38 100 miles) will be open for business September 16 (the Mexican Independence day). A division of seventy miles from Manzanillo to Colima is partly graded. Work is pushed vigorously from Laredo to Monterey (171 miles), and from Matamoras up the Rio Grande, where about ten miles of track are already laid. In all active construction is going on over nearly 600 miles of line. In addition to this, on the Texas side 150 miles of track are laid and running from Corpus Christi to Laredo.

These lines, as laid out pass through and drain twelve of the twenty seven states of the republic of Mexico, namely Mexico, Guanajuato, Michoacan, Jalisco, Colima, San Luis Potosi, Zacatecas, Aguas Calientes, Coahuila, Nuevo Leon, Tamaulipas and also the Federal district of Mexico. These are mainly the most populous states of Mexico, their combined population numbering 3 073 211 or more than one-half of the entire population. The assessed values of property taxable for federal purposes in these states is $201 068 159, or about four sevenths of the entire taxable property of the republic which is $49 300 771. The government assessment list is little less than two thirds of the market values of property.

The following statement is presented of the gross earnings and expenses of the El Salto division for the month of June last the first month in which it has been open.

Passengers	$8 80
Freight	4 [illegible] 3
Express, &c	1 518 26
Total gross earnings	$14 501 66
EXPENSES
[illegible]	6 [illegible] 64
Net earnings	$8 0[illegible] 3

This return shows a net earning of the total of $200 per mile. Of course but the earnings for this first month are well in by all the disadvantages and extraordinary expenses which attend the setting of new machinery in motion for the first time.

BORDER DIFFICULTIES.

Mexicans Murder a Party of American Avengers Forming to Cross the Border. Furious Complication Feared.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 17.—A Tombstone, A. T., dispatch to the Lalitah contains the following particulars of the border troubles: A party consisting of Wm Lang, Dick Gray, Jim Crane, Charles Snow, Thomas H. Clinton, Wm Beyers and Harry Fyeshaw camped last Friday night in Guadalupe Cañon about one hundred and ten miles east of Tombstone and very near to the Mexican line. Early Saturday morning the party was attacked by Mexicans and Lang, Gray, Crane, Snow and Clinton were killed. Beyers escaped with a wound in the abdomen while Fyeshaw ran away amidst a shower of bullets.

It is estimated that the Mexican party numbered twenty five to thirty men. The condition of the camp indicated that the attack was made just as the murdered men were getting up. One had evidently been killed while lying down. Crane was fugitive from justice and an outlaw, and six bullets struck him. Lang was a man about twenty two years of age, and had been in that section of the country with cattle about three months ago, and came to Arizona from Kansas five months ago. He and his father are men of large capital, and have extensive experience in the stock business. The son was bringing some cattle for the Tombstone market when killed. The immediate cause of the killing was as follows:

A party of rustlers as they are called went into Mexico and stole cattle. They were followed by the Mexicans who got so close on them that they were obliged to abandon the stock. This was done in the vicinity of the late murder. The Mexicans took the stock and started back home at the same time picking such cattle and horses as they chanced to meet. The stock was missed and a party of sixteen Americans started in pursuit, overtook the Mexicans and fought all night with them and retook the stock. This occurred during the latter part of July. It is probable that the recent raiders were some of the same party defeated last month.

Great excitement prevailed in the vicinity of Tombstone. A large party has been raised to avenge the murders. The Clinton boys whose father was murdered, have raised a body of men altogether numerous, and are as desperate looking as could be imagined. They will carry war into Mexico. Great apprehension is felt for the Americans, yet it is more than likely be a war of retaliation. We are hourly expecting a collision. The Mexican troops are in force on the line and will repel the invaders. Governor Fremont being absent there is no head to the American forces and lawlessness seems to be the order of the day. Serious international complications will arise unless immediate steps are taken to put a stop to the movement.

Stocks and Bonds

NEW YORK, August 17.

In the stock market in the early part of the day there was anxiety to cover shorts made yesterday on the calculation that the president would not live another day. This steadied the market but in the afternoon the whole market became feverish. In London the American securities were irregular but generally higher than here. The rate for all loans was bid up among the stock jobbers to one sixteenth of one per cent per annum.

Exchange in the East

NEW YORK, August 17.—The Public statement of exchanges for the second week in August shows a smaller aggregate of business as last year during the same period. Exchanges have not been so small at any other time since September as they were last week. Meanwhile Baltimore is the only considerable city which does not show an increase of changes greater than the average advance in prices. The following are the gains for the week ending the 6th at San Francisco, and the 13th at other cities:

New York	13 3
Boston	29 7
Philadelphia	1 6
Chicago	30 9
Cincinnati	11 4
St. Louis	3 7
Milwaukee	39
San Francisco	20 8
Pittsburgh	1 1
Louisville	29 8
New Orleans	7 8
Providence	13
Cleveland	22 5
Kansas City	63 1
Indianapolis	31 1
Hartford	18
New Haven	14 2
Lowell	30 1
Worcester	19

The decrease at Baltimore was three tenths of one per cent. Total exchanges for the week, $885,200,473. Outside of New York the total was $260,247,091 or 28 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

Summons.

STATE OF COLORADO, COUNTY OF EL PASO.

In the county court within and for the county of El Paso aforesaid. The E. N. Welch Manufacturing company, plaintiff, vs. George W. Turney and Harry M. Turney, under the firm name of Turney Bros., defendants.

The people of the state of Colorado send greeting:

To George W. Turney and Harry M. Turney, defendants above named: You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs, in the county court of the county of El Paso, to bring in the 4th judicial district of the State of Colorado to answer the complaint filed therein, within ten days, exclusive of the day of service, if served within this county, or if served out of this county, but in the said judicial district, within twenty days, otherwise within forty days, or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of the complaint.

The said action is brought to recover the sum of four hundred and twenty-nine dollars and sixty cents, due from the defendants to the plaintiff on two promissory notes dated November 6, 1880. One of $200 due three months after date, and one of $229.60 due five months after date, also for interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the said sum of $629.60.

Given under my hand and the seal of the county court within and for the said county of El Paso this 9th day of June, A. D. 1881.

[SEAL] J. E. McINTYRE, Clerk.

Edgar T. Ensign, Plaintiff's Attorney. wg 25-4
